HIGH SCHOOL

Foreword

We are the generation of tomorrow. It is we to whom the responsibility for managing the modern world will pass in years to come. We will find ourselves charged with directing a world which is ever changing, ever advancing. We must be prepared to accept these obligations which accompany our adulthood.

Moorestown High School endeavors to prepare us to be worthwhile, responsible adults, adults who will always strive to make the world a better place in which to live. By presenting a varied and modern course of study to her students, by attempting to instill in them a genuine desire to use the many wonders of the modern world morally and wisely, Moorestown helps her pupils to become good citizens of the Atomic Age.

It is therefore fitting that we should select as the theme of our yearbook "Preparing Youth for the Modern World."

Dedication

BLAIR B. BECHTEL

It is with sincere appreciation and profound respect that we the class of 1959 dedicate our yearbook to Blair B. Bechtel in recognition of his 35 years of unselfish service to Moorestown High School. His willingness to serve and his warm friendly manner have left our school deeply indebted to him.

Administration

An abstract geometric composition featuring several overlapping circles and sharp, intersecting lines. The design uses a limited color palette of black, white, and various shades of gray, achieved through solid colors, stippling, and halftone patterns. The lines are thick and black, creating a sense of dynamic movement and structure. The circles vary in size and are partially obscured by the lines and other circles, creating a layered effect.

There's more to a school than classrooms and books,

There are principals, teachers, janitors, cooks!

Typists and clerks, the men on the bus

Keep the wheels rolling for all of us.

... FROM THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS' DESK:

Over a year ago a rocket called Sputnik blasted off from a launching area in Russia. Within a few days a wave of hysteria spread over this country. Many people, including government officials, asked the question, "Why were the Russians able to place a satellite in orbit before the United States?"

Now tempers have cooled somewhat, and there is a chance to make a cool analysis of what happened and to appraise some facts. One important fact is that this country should not underestimate the ability of any people. Also we cannot afford to be second to any nation in either basic research or technology.

Our survival in this modern world requires an adaptability to new things and a sense of sacrifice on our part. Unless we discipline ourselves and deny the things that weaken us, we may not be able to enjoy the things we already have.

Marshal Petain once said, "Our spirit of enjoyment was greater than our spirit of sacrifice. We wanted to have more than we wanted to give. We spared effort and we met disaster."

To the Seniors:

You seniors are now completing an important step in your life, the significance of which will become more apparent to you in the years ahead. Your parents are making your graduation possible at considerable personal sacrifice and expense. Your education is indeed a valuable part of your American heritage—something which has come to be regarded as the "right" of every American boy and girl.

Let me assure you that each of you has had the opportunity to prepare himself well for his role in the modern world. The most important part of your education was acquired in your home under the direction of your parents and your church. In the classroom and in your school and community activities you have had the opportunity to work with groups of students and develop your individual talents in accordance with your interests and ambitions. You have developed self-discipline, the basic skills of learning, and the knowledge which you will need in this modern world. Thus, you have had the privilege of acquiring a good education.

May I remind you that along with privileges go certain responsibilities. Now it becomes your responsibility as a citizen to keep yourself well informed about the events in your community, state, nation, and world so that you can act intelligently to improve your modern world. May this Nutshell with the theme "Educating Youth for the Modern World" ever remind you of your responsibilities of American citizenship.

May you bring credit to yourselves, to your community, and to your school as you seek to achieve success and happiness in this great democracy. Good luck!

Our Faculty

The scholastic achievements of our alumni are high testimonials to the quality of Moorestown's faculty, for the success of our students is to a large degree contingent upon the training our teachers have received. A large number of them have earned their Master of Arts degrees, while a few have attained the equivalent of their doctorates. In addition, our teaching staff makes full use of extension and summer school courses in colleges both at home and abroad.

Yet despite their continuous study, our teachers are by no means pedagogues. We feel they are both counselors and friends from whom we learn how to live wholesome and useful lives. We are indeed fortunate to work with such a well-trained, dedicated, and sympathetic staff.

MRS. TAYLOR, secretary in Board Room.

MRS. ANDERSON, secretary to guidance department.

MRS. CARLSON, secretary to Mr. Hensinger.

The various departments of Moorestown High School would be unable to function smoothly and efficiently were it not for the competent secretarial staff. In addition to their individual responsibilities, each is busy during the day with the general secretarial duties of dictation and typing.

The pen is surrounded by large, sweeping, curved shapes that resemble stylized waves or smoke. A small, wavy line above the pen suggests a drop of ink or a breath. The background is filled with these dynamic, overlapping forms, creating a sense of movement and energy.

Girls' State

R. Rodia, K. Anderson, B. Walton, A. Shockey, M. Dzick, C. Craig.

Douglass College in New Brunswick, New Jersey, was the scene of a week-long workshop in democracy. The Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion sponsored the program which aimed to teach girls of high school age the fundamentals of democracy. Vigorous campaigns and elections were held for every position from sheriff to governor. The highlight of the entire program was the appearance of Governor Meyner at the inauguration of the Girls' State governor.

The Boys' State program, sponsored by the American Legion, has as one of its many objectives the teaching of governmental theories and practices. New Jersey Boys' State, in its thirteenth year, brought together 750 of the best high school juniors in the state. On the Rutgers University campus the boys spent a full week learning about our government, and did their own campaigning and voting. There was also a well organized sports program for the "citizens" of Boys' State. The week was climaxed with the election of a governor and the receiving of diplomas. Any member of the 1958 Jersey Boys' State will tell you that it was an unforgettable experience.

ESTHER STEVENS

Each year a D.A.R. Pilgrim is chosen by her classmates and the faculty to represent the senior class as its good citizen. Candidates for this award are chosen for their dependability which includes truthfulness, loyalty, and punctuality; service—cooperation, courtesy, and consideration of others; leadership—personality, self-control, and ability to assume responsibility; and patriotism—unselfish interest in family, school, community and nation.

Junior Rotarians

Selected by the faculty to represent Moorestown High School at the town Rotary Club meetings are six outstanding senior boys. Each Junior Rotarian, serving for one month, attended the regular sessions of the civic club and was permitted to make any contributions during these gatherings. The Junior Rotarians are selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, participation in school activities, and service.

The music loving students attended four concerts this school year. One in November, December, February, and April. They were transported by bus to the Academy of Music to hear the concerts which featured the Philadelphia Orchestra and included performances by young artists. The representative was Diane Peacock, and Mrs. Schwartz, the faculty adviser.

South Jersey Orchestra

High schools from as far south as Atlantic City and as far north as Hightstown were represented in the South Jersey Orchestra and Chorus Concert given at Lakewood. This was the second year in the orchestra for most of the participating Moorestown students. Three seniors were selected to sing in this year's newly formed chorus.

The Moorestown High School Marching Band, under the direction of Anthony C. Isch, added color and excitement to Moorestown's football games this year. Its precision marching and intricate drills at half time, the result of many hours of practice, together with the performances of the majorettes, color guard, solo twirler Linda Hills, and drum majorette Arlene Gale made the band a popular part of the school's activities program.

At the close of the football season the concert band participated in the Music Festival, a program which climaxed the musical projects.

While the band plays, "Solo Twirler" Linda Hills demonstrates her baton skill at half time for the football crowds.

Orchestra

The Moorestown High School Symphony Orchestra plays a vital role in the school's musical activities throughout the year. In addition to supplying the assemblies with music, the orchestra provides musical entertainment at the senior and junior plays. In the spring, it is featured in one of the two concerts, accompanying the choral groups and offering a wide variety of pieces. At Christmas time the orchestra performs in the annual Carol Service both alone and with the Mixed Chorus. Under the able direction of Mr. Isch it maintains a very fine reputation among students and townspeople.

The annual Sno-Ball Dance, benefiting the senior class, was held on December 23, 1958. The decorations, provided for by a committee of seniors, reflected the joy of the Christmas Season; placed around the gym were various sizes of Santas, sleighs, and Christmas packages. A great Christmas tree and an igloo-shaped band box completed the scenery. Rhythm was provided for by the Don Nicholas Orchestra. At ten o'clock the announcement came that from twelve contestants the student body had selected Sue Fearnought as the Sno-Queen for 1958.

The Nutshell

The Nutshell Literary Staff directs the preparation of written and photographic copy for the newsmagazine. Although the staff itself does much of the writing and news gathering, other students may submit stories or pictures to the News Office, where contributions are assembled and edited.

This year the representatives from the staff attend the conference at Temple.

The main function of the business staff of the Nutshell is "ad-hunting." All financial arrangements for the publication are in the hands of these members.

The typing of copy provides practical experience for many students on the business staff.

Awards are made at the end of the school year to those who make outstanding contributions to the Nutshell.

Student Council's Officers

President, Robert Smythe; Secretary, Joan Conover; Treasurer, LeRoy Peacock.

The legislative body of the student government is the Student Council, which consists of two elected representatives from each homeroom. In its weekly meetings the Council discusses and seeks remedies for the problems of the student body and makes laws for the betterment of the school as a whole. Students are made aware of the work of their representatives through weekly reports in homeroom or through actually observing the Council at work.

The members of the judicial body, the Student Court, are selected indirectly. The students are nominated in the homerooms, voted on by the Council and approved by the office. The Court consists of a representative from each of the four classes, a Junior School representative, two high school advisers (Mrs. Swalm and Miss Sharp) and the Student Council President, who acts as judge. The Court rules in cases presented on the Monitor Club and imposes sentence on guilty students.

Monitor Club Officers

Department Heads

Sitting: S. Denber, E. Stevens, M. Hart, D. Clevenger, J. Gray, M. Umburger. Standing: R. Tartaglia, B. Nosek, W. Hensinger.

The Monitor Club is the executive body charged with upholding the regulations made by the Student Council. Unlike the Council, only the officers of the Monitor Club are elected; the Department Heads are chosen by the President with the approval of the office and monitors selected from among the student body.

The Assembly Ushers is an organization whose members volunteer to accept the responsibility of maintaining good conduct among the student body going to and from assemblies and during assemblies. Four students, two boys and two girls, are selected as heads aiding Mrs. Swalm and Miss Sharp, the advisers.

Desk Monitors

Over eighty pupils—always ready to assist in numerous ways—act as desk monitors during the year.

The two departments most responsible for the maintenance of law and order among the student body during the school day are the desk and traffic monitors.

The desk monitors, chosen by the high school office, are placed in the halls during their free periods, to supervise student conduct in the corridors during class-periods. Between periods, responsibility for student behaviour passes to the traffic monitors, stationed strategically throughout the school.

Self-discipline is not forgotten when the dismissal bell rings at 3:30—but, lest we forget, the Bus Monitors and Game Attendants are on hand to remind us. On the buses going to and from school, the monitors keep a watchful eye on student conduct. At the football games the attendants stand by to discipline students whose enthusiasm runs away with them. In addition they sell tickets, programs, souvenirs, and assist wherever they can.

Juniors in Miss Sharp's American History I class delve into the workings of the Constitution.

Outlines, notecards, magazines mean these juniors in Miss Jackson's English III class are working on term papers.

Classical Course

Today it has become increasingly difficult for the high school student to gain admission to college. The aim of the classical course of Moorestown High School is to prepare its students to enter into a liberal arts course in college. To help the students qualify for entrance and be successful in the many colleges of our nation, Moorestown High School has made a variety of courses available. Foremost in the curriculum are Language courses: Latin, French, and Spanish; history courses: ancient and modern; and English courses. A student pursuing this course is encouraged to elect subjects from the scientific curriculum.

Groups prepare advanced translation in Miss McKelvey's Latin II class.

Algebra I presents a challenge to eager Freshmen.

Miss Thompson's American History class strives to discover what makes our country great.

Scientific Course

Mr. Klansek explains a geometry problem to two sophomores.

Chemistry students investigate the production and measurement of gases in the laboratory.

English class—a basic part of Moorestown High School's curriculum begins in the Freshman year.

The modern world of today focuses around science. It is the aim of the scientific curriculum of Moorestown High School to prepare its students for entrance into college for further scientific and technical study and thereby aid in the development of the scientists so greatly in demand in the modern world. With a varied distribution of courses in English, languages, and history, the four years' work is keyed around general science, biology, physics, chemistry, algebra, geometry and advanced mathematics.

Business Course

Silent secretaries ponder over mysteries of shorthand.

The Business Education Curriculum aims to furnish special preparation to students who wish to go directly from school into business. Within this main area there are three fields of specialization which a student may choose—stenography, bookkeeping, or clerical work. At the termination of the high school career, a student should be qualified to begin work in one of the three fields.

Junior business training discussing automobile insurance.

Here, too, the trend is speed in typing classes at M.H.S.

General Course

The General Curriculum does not aim to prepare for college, but for business and vocational interests. It permits considerable latitude of choice, so that the student may plan his course in accordance with logical sequences in subject areas.

Tomorrow's builders—shop at M.H.S.

They're off—to learn the rules of the road.

Social studies can be interesting with Mr. Loring.

The Guidance Department

Mr. Merrill, the Guidance Director, is responsible for the supervision of the department. In addition he is the 10th grade adviser.

Miss Rodney, adviser to the Senior College Prep students, administers all problems pertaining to admission to colleges.

Mrs. Daniels counsels the Junior Class and gives special emphasis to the college preparatory students.

Mrs. Long, who replaced Mrs. Tsantes in February, is the freshman adviser and teaches the girls' guidance classes.

Medical Staff

At different stated intervals the medical staff provides examinations for all students. The nurse is available to the high school students on a regular schedule. Each year a dental examination is administered to every child in the school. When one of the dentists discovers conditions requiring corrections, he makes a report to the parents, suggesting that the child consult his regular dentist. Serving on the medical staff are Mrs. Darnell and Mrs. Murray, nurses; Dr. Elwell, Dr. Chisholm, Dr. Hitchner, Dr. Isenberg, and Dr. Porter; and Miss Harney, secretary.

A group of juniors and seniors skipping gaily from one class to another.

Finalists in National Merit Scholarship Program

The class of 1959 is extremely proud of two outstanding students. Patricia Rodgers and Robert Smythe have distinguished themselves in academic competition with students from all parts of the nation, and thus have brought honor not only to themselves but also to our school.

It's good practice for all those English themes—come senior year!

"Hurry, typists—the Nutshell Deadline is 3:30 P.M.!"

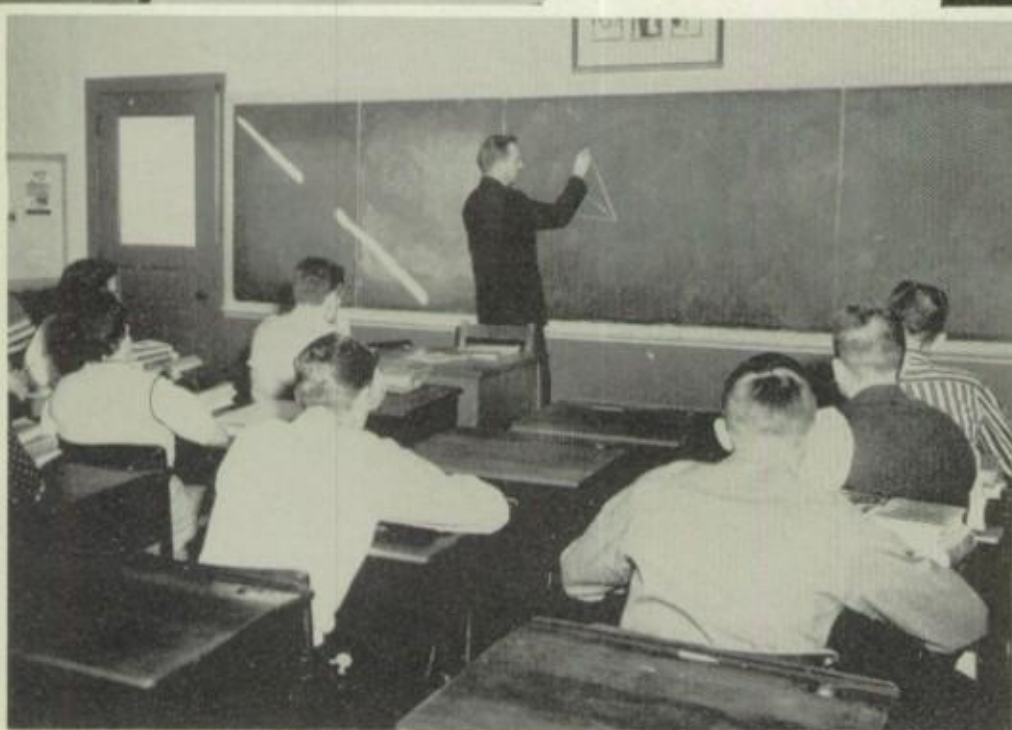

Miss Harney, a welcome addition to the library staff this year, works with student librarian.

When a student is misplaced temporarily, Clapperton and Company gets on his trail and presto! he's found.

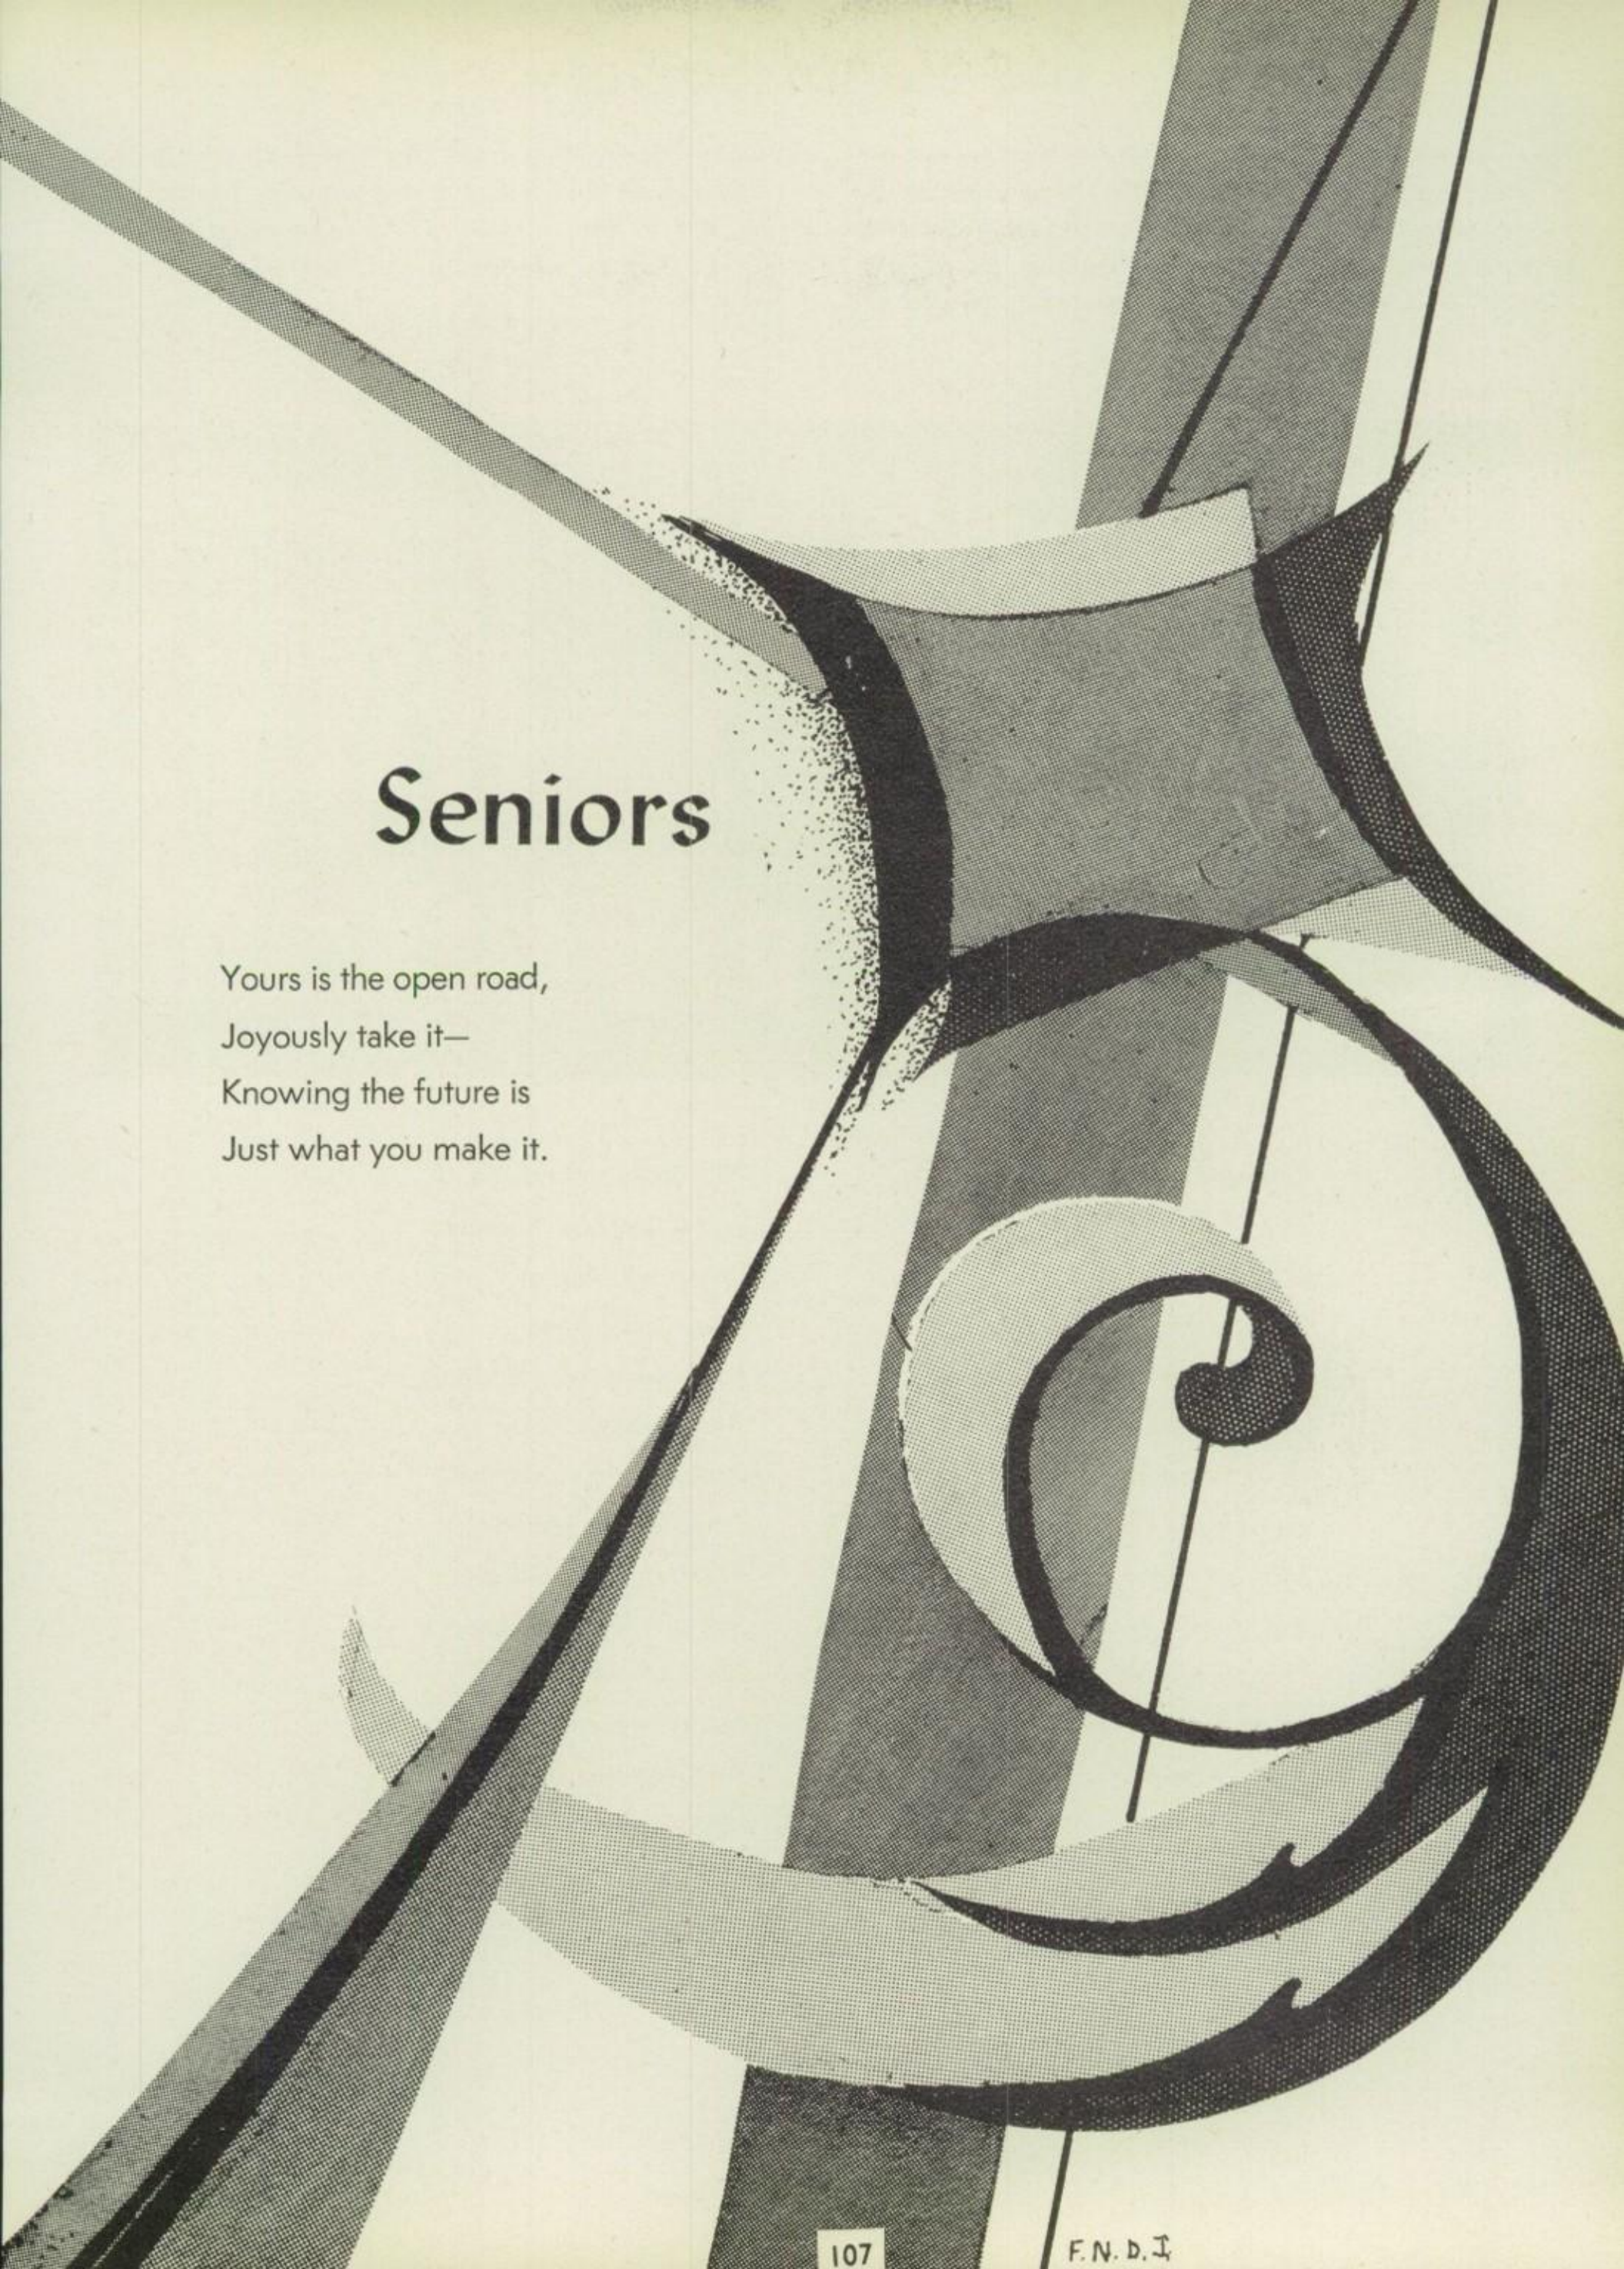

Collecting ticket money is only half her job—the other half? Collecting the attention of her bookkeeping students.

Mr. Klansek entertains his plane geometry class by drawing the beak of a giant Quetzalcoatl bird.

An abstract graphic design featuring overlapping geometric shapes and a prominent spiral. The design is composed of various shades of gray, black, and white, creating a sense of depth and movement. The shapes include triangles, rectangles, and a large, thick spiral that dominates the right side of the page. The overall effect is a dynamic and modern composition.

Seniors

Yours is the open road,
Joyously take it—
Knowing the future is Just what you make it.

The Honor Society

These students—most of whom also appear on the sports and activities pages—have consistently maintained a high degree of academic excellence throughout their high school careers. In recognition of this accomplishment each will receive an Honor Society Key from the Board of Education, symbolic of the fact that the student has found the key to the modern world in knowledge and the key to knowledge in industry and perseverance.

Coordinating the activities suggested by the senior officers, chaperoning various social events, and enjoying the final year with the class of 1959 compose the major functions of the senior advisers. Planning part of the annual Washington trip to make the journey a memorable and exciting one is fun for advisers as well as students. With fond reminiscence and hope for great success, the senior advisers plan the final senior activity—graduation.

Senior Class Officers

Class officers spent a busy year preparing for the long awaited activities which so enriched the lives of the seniors. Planning the second annual Sno-Ball was one of the major functions of this group. The senior play "The House on the Cliff" produced mystery as well as money with the help of the class officers. The success of the Washington trip and graduation ceremony demonstrate the capabilities of this hardworking group.

Who's Who

Much adult criticism has been aimed recently at the tendencies of teenagers to lose identity, to become lost in the crowd. Similarities in teenage dress, hair styles, taste for music and movies, and attitudes have led many adults to think of the average teenager in terms of a gum chewing, carelessly dressed stereotype. No one knows better than the high school pupil how far from the truth the stereotype actually is. In Moorestown High School, for example, the average student is not merely a member of the crowd. He is a healthy, vital, growing individual with interests, ideas, and talents of his own. His behavior is far better than that of the adults' stereotype.

Because teenagers do recognize that they are distinct personalities, they take pleasure in choosing from among their ranks, individuals who are particularly outstanding. They choose those who share scholastically, in athletics, in character, to represent them. The following seniors were elected by their classmates, as the best examples of the many diversified fields of interest of today's youth.

The philosophy of education which the administration and faculty of Moorestown High School embrace—the philosophy which we, the Seniors, have experienced these four years—was expressed adequately by Daniel Webster when he said:

"Knowledge does not comprise all which is contained in the large term of education. The feelings are to be disciplined; the passions are to be restrained; true and worthy motives are to be inspired; a profound religious feeling is to be instilled, and pure morality inculcated under all circumstances. All this is comprised in education."

The world of tomorrow awaits you,
But wait, you ladies and lads—

Dear Marilyn,

It's been so long since our paths first crossed. Boy, have we ever changed. It seems so long since we first played hopscotch at number 7. This date seemed so out of reach at the time. And yet here we are practicing and planning for yet a new stage in our lives. We've managed to get along through so much - shopping expeditions, cookie baking, scouts, music and Walter. And of course the Washington trip. It really worked out better than we ever thought it would.

Dear Marilyn
 We've been together so long that it's hard to remember. One thing I'm real glad of and that is that we're covalidictorians. It's really nice sharing lessons with a real friend. Remember how we used to swing in my hammock, eat lunch together, share everything.
 Then we took piano lessons about the same time. played duets, had a ball! In school we were almost always in the same classes; I'm sure I never would have gotten through Latin II without you. I'm really grateful to you for all your help. You were always such a willing listener and I'm sure you heard about everything romantic that happened to me. It's been a real pleasure working with you in M.Y.; very president deserves a vice-president as willing and capable as you.
 Never forget our "wonderful" sessions with the book club and our trying experiences with Señora Emily. What an experience! Of course, I wish you the best of everything. I hope everything turns out as you want it to (and I mean you'll be a wonderful nurse. Good at Duke - I'm sure you'll be a lifelong friend.
 luck, always, to a wonderful nurse. Good few + luck,
 Judy

Marilynn:

Autographs

We must keep in touch this summer, and equally commiserate ourselves on our ill-luck (as to male absence). Bob and I have had some terrific times with you and Walt - socializing at dances and beach parties. You + Walt have come a long way since 8th grade and your rendez-vous in our poisoning. You two are two of the greatest I've ever known. Best of everything to a sincere, kind, and devoted friend.

Love,

Diane

Dearest Marilyn,

How times and places and people have changed! Seventh grade and the little girl on the other side of room who knew all the answers now seem far away. Did you ever think that when we first met we would ever fall in love? Seems as though we were made for each other.

Guess what? I dreamed about you last night - so there - I do think about you and I missed you greatly at Laddie's party - Please believe me when I say this! Well getting back to the dream. I visioned on my bed you and you were going to have a baby and I pleased and disappointed at the same time. I glad because we'd have a son and unhappy because the child was a month early and wouldn't be able to be born. The doctor's and nurses in the maternity ward told you this and I wept. But you still had a surprise for me! you did have a child - six of them - and I wept again because you looked kind of sick - you being so frail and all - you know - imagine, six. Oh well, it's what you and I want. I guess will accept all six with love -

We've got a lot <sup>of moments</sup> to remember -

The quiet walks

The noisy fun

The new year's eve we did the town

Sno-balls, fantasies, proms, student concerts, picnics, church services, retreat, recital, quiet, creative fun together. Yes it's all been fun and it will continue to be enjoyable. Absence does make the heart grow fonder. I'm pretty sure that God will answer my prayers about you. This summer will prove many things. When I come home I know I'll know what life is all about.

It's hard to describe how I feel about you. I know you love me very much and I know that I need some one to love. I will miss you this summer!

Please don't let thoughts of me ruin your chances for college valedictorian. Concentrate - Future Preacher's Wife - Love,
